DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Applicant should specify the US Patent Application for the attorney docket no. 58898US003 in the first paragraph of the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

2. The following Office action is based on the term “microsphere filler” being defined in the specification wherein the microsphere filler has a soft skin. (page 9, lines 17-18)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 4-13, 23 and 29-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Meguriya648 (US 6 274 648).

Meguriya648 discloses a process of compression molding of a silicone gel composition. Note that the mold in a typical compression molding reads on the enclosable container. During the process of molding, the “container” is sealed. The silicone gel composition comprises an alkenyl-containing polyorganosiloxane, an organohydrogenpolysiloxane and a hollow filler. (col. 2, lines 12-31 and col. 7, lines 55-64) The hollow filler can be an expanded thermoplastic microsphere filler. (col. 2, lines 52-63) The amount of the hollow filler is described in col. 3, lines 59-67. The compression mold reads on the sealable device in the present invention. For Claims 4-5 and 29, each ingredient and the amount thereof are further exemplified in Example 3. For Claims 8-13 and 30-31, a silica filler can be used. The amount of the silica filler is exemplified in Examples.

5. Claims 1, 4-13, 23 and 29-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Meguriya609 (US 2001/0016609).

Meguriya609 discloses a process of compression molding of a silicone gel composition. Note that the mold in a typical compression molding reads on the enclosable container. During the process of molding, the “container” is sealed. The silicone gel composition comprises an alkenyl-containing polyorganosiloxane, an organohydrogenpolysiloxane and a hollow filler. ([0005] and [0041]) The hollow filler can be an expanded thermoplastic microsphere filler. ([0004] and [0030]) The amount of the hollow filler is described in [0032]. The compression mold reads on the sealable device in the present invention. For Claims 4-5 and 29, each ingredient and the amount thereof are further exemplified in [0005], [0012], [0017] and [0022]. For Claims 8-13 and 30-31, a silica filler can be used [0036] and [0038]. The amount of the silica filler is exemplified in Examples.

6. Claims 2-3 and 24-28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the above references teaches or fairly suggests a) the specific features of the sealant material and the enclosable container set forth in Claims 2-3 and 25-26; b) the folding feature of the enclosable container set forth in Claim 24; and c) a sealable device being adapted to receive a component set forth in Claims 27-28.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 14-22 are allowed.

8. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The present claims are allowable for at least the following reason(s) over the closest references: Meguriya609 and Meguriya648.

None of the references a method of sealing an enclosable containing having a component extending into the enclosable container set forth in the instant claims.
